Everyday Ableism:
Unpacking Disability Stereotypes and Microaggressions with
Dr. Amanda Kraus

When we understand disability in a context of social justice and ableism, a cultural experience very much influenced by dynamics of power and privilege, we can begin to unpack the many ways disabled people are targets of bias and microaggressions. This workshop will use research to identify stereotypes and microaggressions and explore how these ideas shape the disability experience, and also inform our personal and professional behaviors and attitudes.

Tuesday, March 24
12:15-1:30
College of Charleston
Stern Center
4th Floor Ballroom

Sponsored By:

For more information about CofC’s Neurodiversity Initiative:
go.cofc.edu/neuro